The Thirty-Third Sunday

In Ordinary Time

Dear Friends,

As we come to the end of the liturgical year, the focus of our scriptures turns to the end-times. In today's Gospel from Luke we heard Jesus warn his disciples about what to expect in the last days: earthquakes, famines, and plagues. Yet he says that "not a hair on your head will be destroyed." In the first reading Malachi also announced the coming of the day of wrath. Yet he too promises safety for those who fear God's name. With the bare trees and the onset of the colder days leading to winter, it seems a natural inclination to ponder the end of all things. As we journey this week, let us pray for the strength to face whatever comes in our future, so that we may be ready for the coming of the Lord.

This week is a time for parish councils to meet and discuss the pastoral and financial health of our community. The Finance Council will meet on Monday and the Parish Pastoral Council will meet on Wednesday. If you have any issues or concerns for the agenda for the Pastoral Council meeting on Wednesday, please contact one of the council members listed in the back of the bulletin. Members of both councils are reminded to contact the parish office if you are unable to attend. As always, I am deeply grateful for the council provided by both of these advisory boards.

On Saturday, November 19th we will have our annual Morning of Reflection and workshops for all of our liturgical ministers. The morning will begin immediately following the 9AM Mass and will conclude by noon on Saturday. It is very important that all who participate in the unfolding of Sunday worship be present for this event. If you have any questions, please contact Joan Fitzpatrick in the parish office.

Also on November 19th we will be hosting the "Theology of Wine" event in Monsignor Marley Hall beginning at 7PM. There will be no tickets available for sale at the door that evening. There are still a limited number of tickets available for purchase early this week in the narthex or parish office. Come and spend an evening with Father John Stokely and learn about the use of wine and its history throughout the scriptures and taste some samples of selected wines which might be ideal to serve, or to give as gifts, this upcoming holiday season.

Next weekend will be the final drawing for our annual Thanksgiving Raffle. I am deeply grateful to all who participated this year. Our parish will profit over $9,000.00 from the drawing. Good luck to all who purchased tickets!

During this month of November let us continue to hold close to our hearts and prayers the memory of our beloved deceased family members and friends. The Church reminds us that it is holy and wholesome to remember and pray for the dead.

Saint Robert Bellarmine, pray for us!

With prayers,

Monsignor Beisel

C.L.O.W. - The Children’s Liturgy of the Word ministry will be returning to our parish beginning Sunday December 4th. This worship experience especially for children will be available every Sunday at the 11:00 am mass. All children age 4 – 3rd grade are welcome to join us. Children will meet in the newly constructed meeting space during the Liturgy of the Word and will return to celebrate the Liturgy of the Eucharist.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED: Have you ever thought of sharing your gift of faith? The Children’s Liturgy of the Word (C.L.O.W.) program for children from age 4 to 9 will resume December 4, 2016 during the 11:00 mass. The success of C.L.O.W. relies upon motivated, energetic volunteers to share the love of their faith with the youngest members of our All materials are provided just bring your time, talent, and energy. If you think you may be interested or have any questions please call Joslyn Tomlinson at 215-316-6877.

JUST A THOUGHT: Each Thursday morning, the faculty and I meet before school to discuss upcoming events or challenges we may be facing. Our meetings always begin with a reflection and prayer. Our reflection last week contained the thought that when children are young, they are frequently asked: “What did you learn in school today?” However, as they grow and change, so does our question to them. Instead of “What did you learn today?, they are asked, “How did you do on the test/project/presentation?” We challenged ourselves to focus on student learning not simply student grading. I wonder what would happen if everyone’s focus was centered on the learning instead of the grading? Would student achievement grow? Just a thought....

Spirituality Corner

Habits of the Heart (Vinita Hampton Wright) Part I

Most of us are interested in spirituality because, at the heart of things, we want to be transformed. We want our lives to change for the better, in small ways and big ways. This desire for ongoing, positive change compels us to sign up for classes, join prayer groups, attend religious services, participate in faith rituals, and search—again and again—for the practice or information that will help us become the people we truly want to be.

And yet, at the core of true change is a shift in our habits. For the purposes of this brief article, I'm going to skip over our physical, outward practices such as attending Mass or giving to charity. Let's focus instead on the interior habits: habits of the heart.

We cultivate habits of assumption.

I assume that certain things are true and that others are false. For instance, I assume that life will go well for me if I obey the law and generally behave myself. But is that true? If I cling to this assumption, what happens when life does not go well for me? It may be fine for me to hope that life will go well if I live well. But perhaps the better assumption would be: Life might go well for me today, and it might not. Regardless, I want to live a certain way. If, every day, I remind myself that life does not owe me a good day, then I have established a habit of the heart that will not set me up for regular, if not constant, frustration and disappointment.

We can nurture habits of assumption about others: She is judgmental; he's not really inappropriate, just a jokester. And so on. We nurture assumptions about people, organizations, our own identity. (I am misunderstood. I am unwanted. I am more [spiritual / smart / sensitive] than others.)

What assumptions do you make about yourself? About your work, or your children, or anything else? Do these assumptions set the stage for your responding with grace or not?

*Next Week: We cultivate habits of reaction.

Instead, there are links on the parish website for you to listen to professional recordings of the new songs. To access the links, go to the parish website saintrobertwarrington.org. Click on the "Ministries" tab and select "Music Ministry" from the drop-down menu. Scroll down to "Links to New Music" to find the six links to the recordings.
